

Apr 10 11 BENJ. THOMFORD

FRIDAY MORNING, OCT. 23 1850.

HOPE.—Without Hope in this darkened and apostate world, life would be insufferable, and man's chief object would be to escape from existence.—When God passed His fearful and eternal curse upon the original possessors of the Garden of Eden, and blighted all things earthly, He mercifully implanted in the hearts of the disobedient, the sweet germ of Hope; and from that moment when man first felt his utter loneliness and desolation, down to the present time, the soothing gift of Hope, like an angel of Mercy, has brooded over our being, and consoled us in our manifold afflictions. It sustains us on all occasions—when despondency spreads its mantle over the heart, and its cheering attributes elevate us above the engrossing sensualism of earth, to the purity and holiness of a better life. Even while we are surrounded by all the indulgences of pleasure, and grief is knowing at the heart, we hope for still brighter enjoyments. But it is only in the dark and trying hour of misfortune, when we are irresistibly driven to the necessity of feeling our dependence on a higher power than ourselves, or than this earth can afford, that we feel and appreciate the infinite blessing of Hope!—When troubles surround us in our worldly affairs; when the cruel angel of Death bears away the dear objects of our heart's truest affection—when the loved ones of our life are laid cold and motionless before us, in the last pale habiliments of the grave; and as we bend silently and in tears above them, thinking of past joys and by-gone associations, how fondly we have loved each other, and now that it is all forever over—oh, how benignantly the angel of Hope spreads its wings around us, and raises us from the sorrow which is crushing us to the earth! It points the weary soul to the better land, and in the language of Faith, bids us turn our thoughts to the Author and Source of all Wisdom, with a certain confidence that He who hath caused all this, doeth all things well. And then, when our own doom is about being irrevocably sealed—when disease has deprived us of action, and we are laid upon a bed of sickness, with an aching brow and a fevered brain; when we feel that each pulsation of the heart is more feeble than the last—when the dews of Death; when weeping friends surround us, and these most dear are performing the last acts which devoted affection prompts—then, oh, then, when all is solemn and dark around us, how sweetly this last good cherubim of Hope spreads its spangled wings around our expiring nature, and with its finger of immaculate Faith points us to the realms of everlasting beatitude, where a just God sits enthroned in glory, and where a merciful Saviour reclines at the right hand of His Father, as our intercessor and mediator between rebel man and an injured God. Then, above all earthly things, is it that we feel and appreciate the full value of Hope. Then it is that we are ready to acknowledge that even amid the desecrations and corruptions of earth, that a merciful God has kindly left the last of His heavenly angels on earth to illumine the darkness of sin, and to light the weary pilgrim's way through the tomb to the beatified regions of glory—and that angel is Hope!

SEWARD'S LOVE FOR CLAY.—At a Whig meeting at Troy, Hon. Mr. Fuller stated in the course of a speech which he made, that "while the compromise question was pending before the United States Senate, Mr. Seward proposed to Senator Rusk, that if he would defend Mr. Clay's Bill, that he (Seward) would join him (Rusk) in giving Texas better terms than Mr. Clay's Bill gave."

A creature in the form of a man, bearing the name of West, bent out the brains of a noble horse on Friday last, near Dedham. The horse was one of a six horse team, used in drawing stone. A rain had rendered a hill, up which he was driving a load, muddy, and the load stuck. After hearing his horses cruelly cursing all who remonstrated, and refusing assistance, he coolly took a heavy roller, knocked one horse's brains out, and hatching a pair of horses to his neck dragged him aside. He has been arrested.

Rhode Island has the honor of furnishing a President for the Woman's Rights Convention now in session at Worcester, Mass. It is Mrs. Paulina W. Davis, of Pawtucket. She is only a Rhode Islander by marriage; we should be ashamed to find a genuine Rhode Island woman engaged in any such small business.

One Week later from Europe.

The steamer Asia arrived at New York on Wednesday.

ENGLAND.

From Manchester the reports are more cheering, Cloth and Yarns having advanced.

The accounts relative to cotton were little thought of, and further course of trade it was considered would be steady. The Asia arrived on the 5th, at midnight, after a splendid run, and the Pacific on the 10th, in less than 11 days. The effort was about to be made to connect Canada and Great Britain by a line of steamships.

The Queen of England arrived at Buckingham Palace on Friday evening, the 11th.

FRANCE.

Step by step Louis Napoleon appears to be advancing in his ambitious career. One splendid review succeeds another; vast masses of troops are brought together, wine, cigars, imperial smiles and affability, are dealt out to them with profusion, and the Bonapartist Journals with great complacency say that they perceive nothing unusual in these proceedings.

The breach between the President and the Assembly is widening, and that body will probably be called together at an earlier day than was intended.

A telegraphic despatch from Paris says it is stated as positive, that a decision respecting the Holstein question has been come to by France and England, Austria and the German States in favor of Denmark, and that the Duchies will be informed that they must refrain from further hostilities.

The President of France has determined not to act in the affair, in concert with England.

At the review on Thursday there was a grand military spectacle of an extraordinary character, and it is impossible to conceal the fact that a good deal of uneasiness prevailed lest Napoleon should place himself at the head of the troops and march to the Tuilleries. There were 25,000 troops present, and cries of "Vive la President" were heard frequently, but the Republic was not cheered.

That a crisis of some sort is imminent is apparent from the decline in French funds, the sudden arrival of a large number of Deputies in Paris, and the undignified manner in which Napoleon avows his intentions whenever he appears in public. Two cuirassiers, with loaded pistols, preceded his carriage.

The rumors of an intended military insurrection, has died away. Com. Martin's squadron was in the "Tarus on the 15th from Cadix. Gen. Concha wished not to set out for Cuba till the end of the month, but the late news from the United States has accelerated his departure.

GERMANY.

Germany continues excited, while Austria and Prussia are on the verge of civil war. The condition of Hesse Cassel renders the German power everywhere precarious.

At Hesse Cassel, despotic measures were used to irritate the people to deeds of violence, and as a pretext to Austrian and Russian interference. Gen. Haynau is under arrest in his own house at Cassel.

Austria, Saxony, Bavaria, and Wurttemberg, have entered into an offensive and defensive alliance. Bavaria is to assist the Elector of Hesse Cassel with troops by order of the Frankfurt Assembly. Thus it is the intention of Prussia to resist. It is thought this affair will bring the German question to a crisis.

DENMARK.

The Holsteiners have failed in their attempt to take Frederichstadt, but they have been repulsed in such a decisive manner, with the loss of their besieging guns, and at least 600 killed, that their cause now seems hopeless.

General Willson and Col. Vantann, after five days ineffectual bombardment, during which time, the Danes made a most gallant defence, at length they advanced by regular parallel and trench—the Danes appeared to slack and file, and allow the enemy to advance, when the besieged opened a terrific line of batteries, which spread universal carnage.

After some hard fighting, the Holsteiners were obliged to sound a retreat.

Gen. Willson writes his despatches in a very dispirited tone, and the Holsteiners now find that they want funds, and have made a most urgent appeal to United Germany.

HOLLAND.

The States General of Holland was opened at the Hague by the King in person, on the 7th. The speech was of a favorable character.

ROME.

On the 30th of September, Doct. Wiseman was named a Cardinal, at a Consistory at Rome, under the title of Archbishop of Westminster. The ceremony of investing him with the cap was performed with great pomp. Ten out of the fourteen present Cardinals have been chosen from foreign States.

MORGAN JONES AND THE DEVIL.

"Why, yes," answered Morgan, "there's some truth in that story, sure enough; I used to meet with him now and then, but we fell out, and I have not seen him these two months."

"Aye," exclaimed each of the party, "how's that, Morgan?"

"Why, then, be quiet, and I'll tell ye it all."

And thereupon Morgan snatched his pot and laid it filled again, and took a puff of his pipe and began his story.

"Well, then," says he, "you must know that I had not seen his honor for a long time, and it was about two months from this time that I went one evening along the brooks shooting wild fowls, and as I was going whistling along, whom should I spy coming but the devil himself. But you must know he was dressed mighty fine, like any grand gentleman, though I knew the old one well by the bit of his tail which hung out at the bottom of his trousers. Well, he came up, and says he, 'Morgan, how are ye?' And says I, touching my hat, 'pretty well your honor, I thank ye.' And then says he, 'Morgan, what are ye looking after, and what's that long thing ye're carrying with ye?' And says I, 'I'm only walking out, and brook this fine evening, and carrying my backy pipe with me to smoke.' Well, you'll know the old fellow, in mighty fond of the backy, so, says he, 'Morgan, let's have a smoke, and I'll thank ye.' And says I, 'you're mighty welcome.' So I gave him the gun and he put the muzzle in his mouth to smoke, and thinks I, 'I have you now old boy.' 'Cause you see, I wanted to quarrel with him; so I pulled the trigger, and off went the bang, bang, right into his mouth. 'Puff,' says he, when he pulled it out of his mouth, and stopped a minute to think about it; and says he, 'd—d strong backy, Morgan!' Then he gave me the gun, and looked huff and walked off, and sure enough, I've never seen him since. And that's the way I got rid of the old gentleman, my boys."

DOING A SILLY THING.—South Carolina has suffered many of her public men to say very silly things in her name, and she has at length, by way of endorsing all these silly things, concluded at last to do one. She has taken a step from which she must either recede, or follow up with a course of action that must involve consequences it is impossible to foresee. She has determined on principle, and a very mischievous principle, too, to employ no more Northern coasters; and, in carrying out this principle, she has taken place north of Mason and Dixon's line. South Carolina is manifestly actuated by the notion that she may, with perfect propriety, set the constitution and everything else at defiance, so long as she can do so without provoking the power of the general government. But it seems to us highly probable that she will again go on until she arrives at that point where she will again be permitted to go no further.

A letter from Havana of Oct. 3, says:—"The first peaches ever openly exposed for sale here, I saw this morning. They came in ice from Boston, and were in tolerable order. Price 12 1-2 cents each! I am mistaken if this does not bring them out in abundance next season. It would pay for any possible expense of packing."

The Memphis Enquirer says that a few days since a cask of bacon was opened by Messrs. Cook & Hawley, of that city, and they found therein thirty-nine pounds of pine knots! The cask was received from St. Louis.

Frugality, if it be not a virtue, is at least a quality which can seldom exist without some virtues, and without which few virtues can exist.

The trial of Samuel Drury, Senior, for having in his possession counterfeit money, is now progressing in Brooklyn, New York.

Patriotic Movements.—Messrs. Cobb, Toombs, Stephens, and Wellborn are canvassing the State of Georgia with great zeal, and are advocating the cause of Union with the happiest effect wherever they appear.

The Russian language will be introduced as the official language into Poland, on the 1st of January next.

Printers' Language.—Every professional trade has its technical terms, and of course the printers have a "small snorter," which is intelligible only to the craft. The following is a specimen: It don't mean, however as much as it would seem to the uninitiated:—"Jim, put General Washington on the galley, and then finish the murder of the young girl you commenced yesterday. Set up the ruins of Hieroglyphic; distribute the smallpox; you needn't finish that row-way match; have the high water in the paper this week. Let the pi alone till after dinner; put the barbed wire to press; and then go to the devil, and he will tell you about the work for the morning." Not much wonder that Dr. Faustus was burned for inventing such a diabolical art.

A ROMAN CATHOLIC COLONY IN ARKANSAS.—English papers state that the Right Rev. Dr. Burns, Roman Catholic Bishop of Arkansas, is at present in Dublin, and that he will be accompanied back to his diocese immediately by a clergyman, and upwards of six hundred substantial farmers from one district, in the county of Wexford. A large number of ladies of the "Sisters of Mercy" have also signified their intention to accompany him. The site of the new colony is between Little Rock and Van Buren, and the Bishop describes the land as abounding with fruit and corn.

A Hungarian Unitarian preacher driven lately from the old home of Continental Unitarianism, spoke in Latin freely at the Unitarian Convention at Springfield, and an interpretation of his address was furnished by Rev. Mr. Osgeed, of New York.

JENNY LIND.

Not a word sang the Birds in Eden, Than this fair Nightingale of Sweden. The only difference 'twixt the two, lies here—"Their" notes were gratis, "her's" are very dear.

Wm. Gordon, a mulatto, and probably a runaway slave, living in New York, N. J., was met the other day in one of the streets and told that some Southern rascals were in pursuit of him. He had, said he, had but a short distance to go, when he fell in convulsions. He lay in this state for some hours, when he died.

Naval.—The U. S. schr. Flirt, Lieut. P. Turner, commanding; arrived at Charleston on Friday, from Pensacola, whence she sailed on the 28th ult. The following is a list of her officers: P. Turner, Lieut. Commanding; Julian Myers, Acting Master; J. H. March, Passed Midshipman; W. H. Blount, Passed Midshipman; J. W. B. Greenhow, Assistant Surgeon; B. Van Buren, Captain's Clerk.

DIED.

In this town, on Thursday, William Goodspeed, son of the late William Goodspeed, aged 16 months.

Funeral this afternoon, at 2 o'clock, from the house of William Goodspeed, on Elm street.

At Aliso, California, Sept. 1st, Mr. George Engle, son of the late Capt. John Dennis, of this town, aged 33 years.

In this town on Thursday morning Mrs. Mary W. wife of Mr. George Cozzens, and daughter of Isaac Gould, Esq., she suffered with a lingering illness, yet she sustained her affliction to the last moment, with Christian fortitude and resignation. As a wife, mother, daughter, sister and friend, she was loved and respected, and though early surrounded by the endearments of family, she was fully prepared for the solemn exchange of worlds, and departed from this life full of hope and confidence of a resurrection to the blissful immortality in the new paradise which God has prepared for his holy angels.
